

Mike McCune on T-14

“T-14 is the most dynamic sink tip material that I have ever used. Its versatility over a broad range of fishing conditions makes it an absolute “must have” for my guiding and personal fishing year ‘round. It has a super thin diameter that cuts through current with ease and makes for unbelievably simple casting. Its density (14 grains per foot) keeps your fly in the zone through the entire swing while providing the energy necessary to turn over the larger flies that are useful for cooler water conditions.

Because T-14 comes in 30 ft. coils or bulk spools I find it to be both economical and trouble free to make my own tips in a variety of lengths. This allows for fine tuning to meet a wide variety of situations, a feature I find to be extremely beneficial. Steelhead and Salmon fishing can be ultra demanding and challenging which is why I appreciate the flexibility that T-14 gives me.”
